

2022 Precision Medicine Series

Physicians & Psychologists may earn CE credit

Race Correction in Medicine

Tuesday, May 3, 2022—12PM to 1PM (Pacific Time)

Venue: Zoom | Registration required to receive zoom access | No registration fee

To learn more & register: <https://tinyurl.com/2p9ye3bp>

CE Information:

1 AMA PRA Category 1 Credit™ for physicians

1 CE for psychologists

Abstract: This course will examine recent debates regarding race correction in medicine from the standpoints of ethics, law, and policy. Dr. Callier will present empirical evidence on how doctors respond to race-based drug guidelines and describe how lack of diversity, equity, and inclusion in genomics research lead to health inequities.

Learning Objectives:

- Discuss the current discourse about the ethics of race correction in medicine
- Describe ongoing efforts to classify patients and research participants in standardized ways
- Discuss how the exclusion of diverse populations in genomics research leads to health inequities

Our Speaker

Shawneequa Callier, J.D., M.A.
Associate Professor, Department of Clinical Research and Leadership, George Washington University School of Medicine and Health Sciences (SMHS)

Shawneequa Callier, J.D., M.A., teaches courses in bioethics and health care law in a variety of programs at SMHS. She is also a Special Volunteer at the Center for Research on Genomics and Global Health, National Human Genome Research Institute, National Institutes of Health. Professor Callier's research focuses on issues at the intersection of bioethics, law, and emerging technologies.

California Northstate University, College of Medicine is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education to provide continuing medical education for physicians. In accordance with the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education's Standards for Commercial support, all planners, teachers, and authors involved in the development of CME content are required to disclose to the accredited provider their relevant financial relationships. Relevant financial relationships will be disclosed to the activity audience. No commercial support was received for this activity.

California Northstate University, College of Psychology is approved by the American Psychological Association to sponsor continuing education for psychologists. California Northstate University, College of Psychology maintains responsibility for this program and its content.

Contact: joanna.jullien@cnsu.edu